Kora's long car trip home went really well, she was such a good girl and slept most of the way.

She's eating well and getting used to her new home.

The kids are loving to spend time playing with her.

Our older Bengal boy Cody hissed at her at first but is doing it less every day, anyway she snarls back at him if he does and makes him think twice. She is keeping him on his toes by playing dirty, but he is tolerant and although he's the one squealing when she bites his ears with her sharp teeth, he always goes back for more. By week 2 they were playing and he was cleaning and sharing his bed. She's a little Minx, think I should have called her that!

She's a big cat in a little cat body.

Kora impressed the vet with her health and bravery!

She accepted her vaccination and microchip procedures with no crying or growling. Dyanne

Kora 10months old.

Thank you for the lovely Bengal calendar Janne.

You will see from the photo that Kora is a big girl. She continues to have us all wound around her little paw! Dyanne
